MORAL REPORT

Dear Friends,

Planète Enfants & Développement works in four countries whose situations are rapidly evolving. In Burkina Faso, particularly, the increased action of the radical armed groups, specifically in the North, causes the displacement of populations fleeing violence. In Vietnam, rapid economic development does not benefit everyone and the increase in social inequalities must be corrected. In Nepal, the country's development is very limited due to the consequences of the recent earthquake. In Cambodia, the economic growth makes it more evident that there is an urgent need to focus on the poorest groups, as they are excluded from the process. Our action must take these contexts and their evolution into account.

Through creativity and long-term commitment, we are able to manage situations that are constantly changing. Firstly, with creativity, you will find the "Biibop" project illustrated in this report, a very beautiful initiative to create games and toys "Made in Burkina" dedicated to early childhood. Creativity is shown also throughout intervention in Cambodian factories, where we offer social services closer to the families in need. The following engagement is with the reconstruction of schools in Nuwakot, Nepal – I want to pay homage to our teams for this lengthy project in an extremely difficult Nepalese context. Finally, in Vietnam, the local authorities are resuming our social support activities as we were able to demonstrate the benefits.

Dear friends who follow and support us, I hope you will find reasons to continue on this journey with us through this report. I extend my warmest thanks to our partners and donors for their loyalty, to the teams for their completed work throughout the year, and to the volunteers whose support is extremely valuable.

I wish you a great read.

OUR EXPERTISE

MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH

Planète Enfants & Développement is working to facilitate the access and quality of sexual and reproductive health services.

In 2018, our work was mainly carried out in textile factories in Cambodia, which employ a particularly higher rate of young mothers and future mothers who are far from care paths, and through which malnutrition is detected in young children by the use of assessments.

PROTECTION AGAINST VIOLENCE

Violence against children is a violation of their basic rights, but also has serious consequences for their development and that of their community. Violence against women, especially mothers, makes them unable to protect their children, and perpetuates a vicious cycle within families.

Our actions are mainly focused on combating trafficking, as well as sexual and domestic violence. This also covers the field of economic discrimination and harmful traditions.

These actions include raising awareness in adults regarding the socio-economic integration of mothers through physical and psychological care. Building the capacity of communities and families also protects women and children from violence, as well as the involvement of men and adolescents, enable long-term behavioral change.

FAMILY SUPPORT

Demographic pressures and climate change lead many rural families to big cities with hopes of finding jobs and better living conditions in the countries we work with. However, with discrimination and lack of self-confidence or knowledge of their new environment, the families do not access existing services and resort to precarious jobs, ultimately, living in survival modes.

Our Family Support projects aim to improve the living conditions of these vulnerable populations in a sustainable way. The method consists of creating a bridge between families and public and private services that they can access as needed.

In 2018, psychosocial support was combined with support for the renovation of unsanitary housing in the slums of Phnom Penh, Cambodia.

EARLY CHILDHOOD DEVELOPMENT

A child's first six years are the most important for its development: their experiences and emotional relationships build their approach to the outside world and form the basis of their evolution. Poverty and all its consequences are harmful factors to the development of a child's full potential. On the other hand, policies supporting early childhood generate proven socio-economic benefits, crucial to a country's development.

Our action, previously focused on preschool children (3-6 years), extended in 2018 to younger ages (0-3 years). We aim to improve the access to services and their quality through 4 areas of focus:

- The creation of kindergartens and nurseries, and the inclusion of children who do not have access to it
- The development of educational materials and games, and the training of educators
- Parental education on childhood stimulation, and the protection and attention they should provide for their children
- Close collaboration with the local governments and the civil society to develop early childhood services and make it one of its priorities.

SOCIO-PROFESSIONAL INTEGRATION

We work with young people over the age of 14 to help them integrate into society and gain employment. These adolescents may be victims of violence, like prostitution, labor exploitation, or simply non-educated with little help from their families.

We always work in a network with training centers, companies, employers, different sector groups and cooperatives. We also operate with local actors to educate the out-of-school youth, support group initiatives for savings or facilitate access to credit.

ADVOCACY

Improving the policies and enforcement of child protection, women's rights, and anti-trafficking is part of our mission and expertise. We support our associated partners who also work in these tracks.

SOCIAL AND SOLIDARITY ENTERPRISES

In 2018 we carried out 4 projects in the form of social and solidarity enterprises.

This methodology allows to fund the projects and anchor throughout the length of the services created within the Planète Enfants & Développement programs.

Revenue is generated through the sale of products (Shanti sewing and paper workshop in Nepal), manicure services (La Nails workshop in Vietnam), training and educational materials for early childhood in Cambodia (Resource Center for Early Childhood) and in Burkina Faso (Biibop enterprise).

GROWING UP IN A BETTER WORLD

A VISION SUPPORTED BY A CO-CONSTRUCTION METHODOLOGY

AND A COMMITMENT BY ALL STAKEHOLDERS

ADVOCACIES: 3 ENGAGEMENT AXES IN 2018

At Planète Enfants & Développement, we work so that children grow up in a better world; so that the least favored among them can be stimulated and raised in proper and blossoming conditions and grow into adults able to build a harmonious and sustainable development in their country. With this purpose in mind we act internationally with vulnerable communities, civil society and public actors to support them in improving the access and quality of the necessary services to children's blossoming.

We lead a pledge as well in France, with other actors of civil society, to improve the legal framework and its application.

DÉFENSE OF CHILDREN WITH THE GROUPE ENFANCE

In 2018, Planète Enfants & Développement joined Groupe Enfance, which gathers French NGO working in childhood department. The Groupe's objective is to act together so that children rights become a reality everywhere on earth.

This year, the Groupe structured its objectives: to advocate for the accounting of children rights at every level (laws, budget decisions, government...); to create a dialog in order to better understand the practices of NGOs of the Groupe in terms of legal approach and to coordinate on the fields of operation; to conceive and to spread tools (formations, guidelines...) for a better integration of Children's' Rights in all humanitarian or development projects.

These objectives have been formalized in a three years project financed in part by the Agence Française de Développement (French Agency for Development).

MORE RESOURCES FOR EARLY CHILDHOOD

Planète Enfants & Développement advocates so that a bigger part of the Aide Publique au Développement (Public Aid to Development) be invested to development projects for early childhood (0 to 6 years old), for we are convinced that the stimulation of the youngest children plays a very important role in the discovery of their potential, as well as the adults they will become.

All experiences on field and neurosciences' studies prove the direct connection between childhood development and the fight against inequalities

It is time for the French development politics to take care of this most important matter. Our petition to claim an accounting and an increase of help towards early childhood boasts more than 20000 signatures, and 2 members of the French parliament have submitted a written question to the government. Our action keeps going in 2019.

ENSEMBLE CONTRE LA TRAITE (TOGETHER AGAINST MODERN SLAVERY)

In 2010, Planète Enfants & Développement joined this group composed of approximately 25 associations that advocate for the identification and support of victims of modern slavery in France.

In 2018, the group allocated a great portion of energy to exhort the MIPROF (Interministerial Mission for the Protection of Women, charged with protecting women against abuse and the fight against modern slavery) to formalize a second National Plan of Action against modern slavery (the first one being null since 2017), coherently with the recommendations of the associations as well as with adequate funding. By the second half of 2019, the plan still has not been published...

The group also performed a great amount of work to inform stakeholders and the public on the reality of modern slavery by the means of a renewed website and a newsletter: www.contrelatraite.org

PARTNERSHIPS

Our projects are anchored within the local systems, conceived and lead with the beneficiaries, local associations and/or the authorities according to their nature and objectives. We cooperate with other international NGOs and technical partners as well, of which areas of expertise complement our owns.

IN NEPAL

We have contracted tight partnerships with 3 local NGOs covering similar areas of expertise to ours. The goal is a mutual improvement and an anchoring of our actions in the long term:

- For 15 years, Prayash Nepal has worked towards communal development in Dhading district. Its action is centered around the help of ostracized and impoverished people, among them women and girls, so that they can take charge of their own future.
- Child Nepal is a NGO created in 2003 to support Children's Rights. We cooperate with them since 2017 on preschool and parental education in Katmandou.
- Chhori — "girl" in Nepalese- is a NGO essentially lead by women who works towards an equalitarian and just society, allowing respect and emancipation of women. Created in 2013 in Katmandu, Chhori is our local partner for the "Shanti" program in 2018.

Since Nepal became a federal state, it has become more difficult to work with central authorities. As such, a mission of our partners is to clearly identify the new prerogatives of local governments and the proper spokesmen.

IN BURKINA FASO

The number and diversity of our partners demonstrate the diversity of our programs.

We work closely with the INFTS (Institut National de Formation en Travail Social - National Institute of Formation in Social Work), the public structure tasked with establishing the continuous formation of staff in social work, to conceive and distribute educational methods and tools.

We also work with many civil society associations:

- Association for the Promotion of Young Children Education in Burkina Faso (APEJEF) has expertise in childhood development and works on production of pedagogical games with local artisans since 2006.
- Action, Governance, Integration, Reinforcement (AGIR) was to lead the social activities of the Support Family projec which ended in 2019.
- Women's Association for the Development of Burkina Faso (AFEDEB) located in Ouahigouya, leads sensization activities towards women on themes such as early marriage, undesired pregnancies, child nutrition and human rights. It boasts a network of communal animators.
- Associaion of babysitters (AGB) runs a kindergarten in Ouahigouya.
- Burkinabè association for Family Welfare (ABBEF)

- Women's income generatinf Activities Suppor funds (FAARF) on the granting of micro finance and support for the development of income-generating activities
- Managre Nooma NGO (AMPO) for oprhan protection, which builds its strategy around orphans and other vulnerable children' social insertion.

Finally, we are a partner of La Fabrique (The frabric), social business incubator in West Africa, as well as a network of Burkinabe craftspeople for Biibob company; Santé Sud, a French international NGO which supports sanitary, social and associative structures of developing countries; and Marie Stopes International NGO on rights and services of Sexual Reproductive Healthcare.

AU VIETNAM

The 360° program of Family Support is coordinated with the IECD - European Institution for Cooperation and Development, a French NGO which supports human and economic development by the ways of education, professional formation, improvement of the youth's access to employment and entrepreneurship. IECD is tasked with the activities of formation in basic gestion and support to entrepreneurship within the professional orientation part of our program. Hung Vuong and Nhan Dao are 2 public institutions of professional formation in Ho Chi Minh, and are our partners to improve youth's orientation and employability and will be tasked to anchor the project in time.

The Social Work Center for Children is a public agency and our main implementation partner. It is tasked with defining the city's (Ho Chi Minh) course of action in terms of family and vulnerable children support and to coordinate the many (2000!) social actors.

On the "fight against the abuse" part, we work with the SCDI (Support Center for Development Initiatives). Its team has been formed to PE&D methods in terms of support between May and July of 2018. The SCDI works with the CDOs (Community-Based Organizations) by taking a communal approach in the districts of intervention.

INSPIRE IN FRANCE

Many formations related to the progress of neurosciences in terms of brain development of young children, as well as the connection between projects focusing on early childhood and lower inequalities have been provided by PE&D to the IRTS (Regional Institution of Social Work), toward future practitioners in kindergarten or other structures for young children.

The main objective of these meetings is to put the students on work over operational projects that they will be able to practice every day to settle issues concerning precarity, abuses, malnutrition, social inclusion... met by children and their family.

IN CAMBODIA

Part of our projects is lead with 2 associations:

- Krousar Yoeung (KrY), founded in 2001 by a Cambodian female employee of Enfants & Développement, is tasked with favoring global development of young children by creating an adapted environment. It is well known for the innovating educational tools it provides as well as its formation of communal kindergarten teachers;
- Samatapheap Khnom Organization (SKO) works towards the improvement of disadvantaged families (children and women in particular) in Cambodia. Today, they work together with Planète Enfants & Développement against women abuse.

Some projects are also directly developed with the beneficiaries and communal groups, chief among them the "Habitat" project in the slums, and development of communal kindergarten in the Kampot region.

Last but not least, PE&D's team is tightly working with the authorities at the national level to improve legal provisions and their application, especially with the Work and professional Training Ministry, Health Ministry and Education and the Youth and Sports Ministry.

A LONG TERM-BASED METHODOLOGY

Our ambition is to provoke and to support behavioral and framework changes for children protection and development; it is fueled with our actions principles, mostly:

- Proximity with all local actors, which means acting on the field, investing ourselves in public politics, creating projects with beneficiaries and surrounding ourselves with partners to enrich our expertise
- Populations and actors emancipation and actions' sustainability;
- Capitalization and active research to document, assess experiences and creation of analysis and answers grids based on successful practices;
- Promotion of gender equality at every step of our projects.

IN VIETNAM

INSPIRING PUBLIC POLICY AND TRAINING LOCAL ACTORS

Vietnam's growth is undeniable, and the country has moved up 12 places in the 2018 HDI ranking of countries. However, this is accompanied by rapid urbanization, and despite the efforts of the authorities, many families are denied basic services. The country is experiencing rapid development, but there are also very strong social inequalities observed, especially among unskilled ethnic minorities and rural populations who arrive to the cities from precarious situations.

Nearly 20% of Vietnamese children still live in adverse conditions and the infant mortality rate remains high.

Most of our work is to improve social policies in the city of Ho Chi Minh, but more broadly in Vietnam through a family support model and guidance for the employment of disadvantaged families.

The main challenge of the final phase of this program, which began in 2017, is to transfer the model to local public partners with hopes of integrating it into the city's policy.

In 2018, PE&D also launched its first project to better identify and address cases of violence against women.

Finally, efforts to detect child malnutrition continue.

In figures...

- Population : 96,4 millions (2018)
- Human Development Index: ranked 115/ 188 (127th- last ranking)
- GDP growth: 6,81 %/ year (2017)
- Infant mortality rate: 14,5 ‰ (2016)
- Life expectancy: 73,5 years (2017)
- Poverty rate: 5,8% (2016)
- Fertility index: 2 children/women2017

FAMILY SUPPORT

445 FAMILIES SUPPORTED AND 245 SOCIAL WORKERS TRAINED UNDER OUR METHODOLOGY

The deployment of the initiated models requires strong will from local authorities, especially in a country where civil society actors could be considered, to some extent, synonymous with political counter power by the authorities. Our activities aim to have the city of Ho Chi Minh take full ownership of the model:

- 245 social workers have been trained to be self-reliant in setting up and managing family support centers in each of the districts of the city and promote better coordination between the centers and the multiple council points that exist in the neighborhoods (these council points make up a network of social support set up by the state)
- a methodological kit of adapted tools has been developed to ensure the transfer of skills.

- a network of 104 public and private social service providers, to which families can access, is led by the on-site team.

The methodology is used in 3 districts; it has proven itself and has received public recognition at HCMV.

There now exists a relatively comprehensive and coherent legal basis regulating social activities in Vietnam, which will allow the experimental establishment of family support centers in each district of the city, leading to implementation across the country

Mrs Nga, at home

A STORY OF FAMILY SUPPORT:

TRÚC, 8 YEARS OLD AND HIS GRANDMOTHER NGA

Report from Tran, social worker of the PE&D team

Mrs. Nga, 64, lives in a very precarious situation with four members of her family. She suffers from a cyst on her head. After several operations, she was unable to continue treatment in the hospital as it was too expensive and opted for traditional medicine in a pagoda in Hu Giang. Every month, she has to travel two days to get her medicine.

Mrs. Nga earns about 4 euros a week selling vegetables that she grows herself.

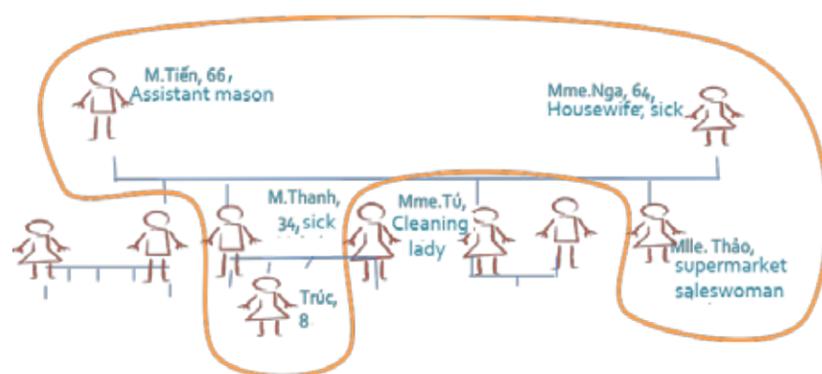

Her husband Tiến, 66 years old, works at construction sites as an assistant mason. He had a work-related accident and fractured his shoulder blade. Additionally, he has high blood pressure. Despite his age and health problems, he can't stop working and participates in the vegetable gardening.

The son, Thanh, born in 1984, had two traffic accidents (in 2001 and 2003). Due to these accidents, he developed serious mental and behavioral disorders. He receives about 25 euros in aid per month. He was married to Ms. Tú, who works as a housekeeper but, according to Mrs. Nga, she was only interested in spending the money he received. They have been separated since.

Trúc is Thanh's daughter. She is 8 years old and last year, due to the family's lack of money, she had to drop out of school.

Thu Thảo, 23 years old, is Mrs. Nga's youngest daughter. Holder of a bachelor's degree, she works as a saleswoman in a supermarket and earns about 150 euros a month. Thảo has not dared to use her motorcycle after an accident, and now her father has to take her to work every day. Thảo does not dare to meet men because of her family's instability and poverty.

HEALTH AND NUTRITION

HEALTH BALANCE SHEETS AND RECORDS ALWAYS NEEDED

Monthly sessions for 1,119 children, ages 0 to 5, were held in 3 boroughs of the city; these child records have allowed to detect many cases of malnutrition;

- 46 children received dietary supplements,
- 82 families obtained health insurance,
- 143 parents- 90% women - benefited from nutrition counselling sessions.

PROFESSIONAL INTEGRATION

OF 250 VULNERABLE YOUTH AND STRENGTHENING OF 2 TRAINING CENTERS

Vocational training activities began in September 2017 in two training centres: Nhan Dao et Hung Vuong.

- 59 people have been trained in the tools developed and used by PE&D, to recruit and guide youth and accompany their families
- 250 youth have been supported in their professional journey using this approach (adapted).

« In the beginning, the youth do not have jobs or purpose in life. After a few months of follow-up, they have a professional career plan and the ability to earn money to support themselves and often their families. »

Behavioral skills and work readiness programs (socialization, etiquette) were integrated into the training courses at these centers with the support of PE&D. Two student clubs were created in these centers and they meet twice a month to discover different aspects of life such as first aid, teamwork, values at work and sports activities.

As a result, both centers are able to better meet the needs of vulnerable youth relating to employers' demands. The goal is to reduce the dropout rate of young people (now estimated at 40%!) and to improve their employability.

"LÁ NAILS", AN INNOVATIVE TRAINING MODEL IN VIETNAM

A practical and short-term apprenticeship, in real context (adapted for youth experiencing difficulties) was set up at the Nhan Dao vocational training center.

Youth between 14 and 25 years old are trained in giving manicures at a nail salon open to the public...

This nail salon called Lá Nails, operates in the form of a social enterprise and its turnover is re-injected into training courses.

The salon opened in October 2018 where 5 students began their training.

TUYÈN, 18 YEARS OLD, STUDENT AT LA NAILS WORKSHOP

I remember my first day of training at the salon: I was afraid of being in a new school, of not getting along well with others, of not being able to do anything and disappointing everyone. But after a few days, I realized that I had no reason to be afraid.

At Lá Nails, we are like sisters, it's like my second home.

I study and learn what I like here. Our professor, Ms. Nhung, transfers a lot of work-related skills to me, but also others useful to my daily life.

THE FIRST STEPS IN COMBATING VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN

A study conducted in 3 districts of the city of Hô Chi Minh was finalized in January 2018. It revealed prevalent violence in different forms (physical, sexual, psychological, economic), as well as clear awareness among women of the dangers, the large scale, and the illegality of the violent acts.

So, we put in place a pilot project with four objectives:

- Make authorities and communities aware of existing violence
- Freedom of speech and identification of victims for our social workers
- Psychosocial support for 20 victims based on our «Family Support» methodology
- Coordination among service providers related to the issue of violence against women.

This project is being carried out in partnership with a local association, SCDI, and a public service, the Women's Union, in each district of the city.

A methodological toolkit was developed in partnership with a psychiatrist to assess women's resilience after the period of care.

IN NEPAL

PROTECTING WOMEN AND CHILDREN FROM VIOLENCE TO ENSURE EMANCIPATION AND DEVELOPMENT

Nepal still is one of the poorest countries in the world. Its harsh landscape restricts communication (a third of the country is covered by high mountains, with altitudes ranging from 3000 to 8000 meters high). The general standard of economic growth is limited as the country lacks natural resources.

In recent years, an earthquake, the federal constitution, and elections have greatly affected the lives of Nepalis, especially in the central regions where we work. The health and social situation in the country, a dilapidated state, pushes the poorest people to live in very precarious cities and situations.

In this small country that is not yet completely reconstructed, the indicators make little improvement and the prevalence of violence remains a major concern. Many women migrate from their rural areas of origin alone. Isolated and without resources, several of them turn to the "leisure" sector, with 50-75% finding themselves drawn to prostitution.

Their children become victims of a violent environment that deprives them of serene development. The level of education is also very low.

Planète Enfants & Développement continues its efforts to prevent violence, including human trafficking, and to protecting victims.

Projects for particularly vulnerable groups: the Chepang, ethnic group discriminated against among other ones; girls and women who are victims of sexual exploitation, in addition to their children, in the Kathmandu Valley; children affected by the earthquake.

The objective is to support local actors to build a more egalitarian society, beginning from early childhood, and to break the vicious cycle of violence and poverty.

PROTECTION AND EMANCIPATION

IN KATHMANDU VALLEY 26 CHILDREN WELCOMED IN KINDERGARTEN, 16 EDUCATORS TRAINED IN PRESCHOOL AND 100% OF MOTHERS SUPPORTED IN SOCIO-PROFESSIONAL REINTEGRATION

This year, in partnership with Child Nepal, the project was able to follow 26 children who attended the early childhood center on a regular basis, received protection and care, as well as experienced an awakening thanks to a dedicated and committed team. A psychosocial counselor took care of mothers and children who were most vulnerable or in trouble. Many activities were organized for them, specifically to explore the extra-curricular world, like excursions to Bhaktapur, the Aviation Museum, the zoo, the vegetable market, and leisure parks.

The older children (5 years old) were awarded their preschool certificates in April and joined the public elementary school in May 2018.

Regarding emancipation, 110 women at high exploitation risk, working in "leisure" establishments were monitored by social workers. A specific entrepreneurship training was developed and provided to 26 women; 7 among them had to create revenue generating activities. Now, regarding professional and vocational training, the women preferred sewing and beauty care, but also 8 of them preferred taking on sales in small fruit, vegetables, toys, and clothing businesses.

« Before I joined this program, it was very difficult for me to support myself and my children »

Parental education was successfully conducted based on the previous year's teachings and the Kindergarten of Hope experience. The number of mothers that participated increased significantly, reaching 9 families, while the program was also extended to nearby schools. The benefits of the project were visible in parents, notably in the amount of attention paid to their children and the quality of their relationship with them.

In this context, several awareness sessions for mothers were also held. Through these sessions, they were informed about migration, health, domestic violence and, legal rules (of the country), and have followed these concepts concretely.

In addition, new activities include the extension of the Early Childhood training to 16 educators in other public kindergartens in Katmandu. These are little supported in their practice and have virtually no educational materials for children between the ages of 3 and 6.

This first successful training experience with public institutions to create a real preschool offer in Nepal, will be extended in the coming years.

PROTECTION AND EMANCIPATION FOR THE CHEPANG COMMUNITY IN THE DHADING DISTRICT

MORE THAN 15,000 CHILDREN AND ADULTS WERE AFFECTED THROUGH THE PROMOTION OF EQUALITY AND THE IMPROVEMENT OF PRESCHOOL EDUCATION

« The association provided me with 20,000 Rupees to start my business. Now that it launched, I own 2 goats that have already given me 4 kids. The business works well, I'm thinking about buying more goats. I am very happy with this new opportunity to earn my own living. »

The SVAWG (Stop Violence Against Women and Girls) project, established in 2015 by Planète Enfants & Développement has been implemented in partnership with the Prayash Nepal Dhading.

The project goals are concerned with the promotion of gender equality and the protection of women against violence and exploitation.

In this context, social workers focus on bringing awareness to Chepang girls and women, one of the poorest and marginalized groups of Nepal, on the issues of violence and gender, women's rights, civil registration procedures, and access to public health services (prenatal health check-ups, pregnancy, follow-ups...). They also educate women on savings and credit.

Since 2017, the creation of long-term conditions encourages an environment that benefits the development of young children, complementing the action.

The progress of the program in 5 district municipalities (Dhusi, Jogimara, Gajuri, Mahdevsthan and Pida) has had many positive effects on the community: more than 90% of the population is registered with the civil state; accessible public services and civil rights are now known. Aware of early marriages, parents are more likely to send their children to school regularly. For example, in 2018, social workers succeeded in convincing 3 families to send their children to school rather than marry them in Jogimara.

In 2018 the main activities were: early childhood classes, professional training and permanent supervisors in the Early Childhood centers, entrepreneurship training, training men in partnership with the "Men Engage" network –dedicated to promoting gender equality, combatting violence, the development of social workers and training educators.

154 men and 836 women participated in group discussions. The social workers visited 426 women to inform them of civil state registration, natural hazards, health records, children education, etc. On the group, they led coordination actions with 54 organizations and sharing their practices and tools so they would be used in other villages.

14 schools experienced specific training for early childhood, parental education, as well as adapted techniques and materials for preschool.

SITA ROKAYA, PRAYASH SOCIAL WORKER

My name is Sita Rokaya and I live at Pida, in the district of Dhading. I am from the Caste of the Dalits, the « untouchables. »

I am the eldest child in my family and I did not have the chance to study much. I had to look for a job very early on to help my family. However, I did social studies at the same time, which is how I was able to become a social worker for Prayash. I quickly began working with women's groups, conducting home and kindergarten visits. I was able to identify specific problems in each community and arrive at individual solutions, organize focus groups, lead a team, etc.

My job is mainly to help women and their children obtain documents of identification, identify malnourished children and send them to health centers, ensure that pregnant women receive medical attention, etc. I am delighted to help communities I work with and belong to.

The knowledge that I have gained at Prayash, I can also apply them within my own family: my parents are farmers, but they take a more professional approach. I have also been able to change my family's perception of women.

SHANTI, A SOLIDARITY SEWING WORKSHOP

VOCATIONAL TRAINING FOR 9 YOUNG GIRLS AND WOMEN,

CREATION OF 3 JOBS AND AUTONOMY OF THE PARTNER.

In partnership with Chhori organization, the Shanti solidarity sewing workshop trains and reintegrates young women who have suffered from sexual exploitation in a caring working environment. Three among the nine beneficiaries have achieved a high level of training in sewing and tailoring, 2 have found alternative livelihood options and 1 has been reunited with her family.

The training has strengthened the self-confidence of the beneficiaries and promoted their talents and their ability to achieve financial and social autonomy. This year, the workshop was able to diversify its activities and strengthen its financial sustainability. And since July, hundreds of earrings, necklaces and bracelets made from recycled paper have been produced, as well as, made to order clothes, and new designs for cloth bags. The bulk of the production was sold in Nepal to individuals during fairs or in shops.

At the end of 2018, Chhori and PE&D have agreed to let their partnership evolve: PE&D will continue to support Shanti, solely in marketing its products, without providing financial support, as to encourage total autonomy of the project.

SUSMITA LAMA, SEAMSTRESS

I came to Katmandu when I was 15 years old. I shared a room with my cousin who worked in a "dohori restaurant*," and months after arriving, I started to work there too. I was abused and prostituted. I did not like this job, but I had to work there to support my family financially.

I met Chhori during an information session organized in the neighborhood, then I participated in multiple support sessions with a social worker and was able to identify my main professional interests, being sewing.

Some time after this, I decided to join the Shanti workshop. I succeeded in the training and gained more confidence in myself!

During the workshop, I learned different sewing techniques, the importance of quality control and the different design techniques for handbag models. I now plan to open a small sewing shop with the support of Chhori.

I am extremely grateful to the Shanti project for all of the opportunities I have had access to. Now, I can say that I am full of hope and optimism for my future!

BUILD BACK BETTER AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE

IN NUWAKOT, 3 BUILDINGS ROSE OUT OF THE GROUND

In the aftermath of the 2015 earthquake PE&D dedicated its construction activities and social mobilization on 2 isolated villages, in the Nuwakot district, in partnership with the schools' committees which included parents, teachers and school staff.

Balkumari School in November 2018.
It was completed in February 2019

Hurdles were numerous: washed-out roads, flooded construction sites, labor and material shortages, administrative difficulties. ... Finally, in 2018 three earth-quake resistant buildings were built, they will be completed and equipped beginning of 2019: one school with 6 classrooms in Balkumari and two schools with 8 and 2 classrooms in Thaprek.

Thanks to the construction of the new buildings, we are now able to teach our pupils in a real school. Thank you PE&D for working so hard for our children and for your help in such remote villages.

INNOVATING FOR BENEFICIARIES AND CAPITALIZING FIELD WORK TO SUPPORT SOCIAL SERVICES

In figures...

Population: 16,8 million habitants (2016)

Demographic growth: 1,48 % / year (2018)

Life expectancy: 69 years (2016)

Fertility rate: 2,5 children / women (2018)

Child mortality rate: 25,1 ‰ (2017)

Literacy rate: 80,5 % (2015)

Preschool rate: 18 % (2015)

GDP growth: 6,80 % / year (2017)

Human Development index: rank 143 / 188 (2015)

Rate of malnourished children : 32,4 %

Cambodia is still a very poor country. Although it currently has a fast-growing economy, the country is still looking for social support. This economic development derives mainly from the textile industry, which unfortunately does not provide benefit to everyone, instead it creates large pockets of poverty of a new type (urban migration, urban poverty) and new social challenges (working conditions in businesses and family breakdown).

Gender discrimination is widely ingrained and parents, mainly in the rural areas, tend to send only the boys to school: only 15% of girls complete the secondary education.

Domestic violence is widely spread and most women have no access to their rights or to information on maternal health. Maternal mortality remains high, with a rate of 170 deaths per 1000 births. Access to quality health services is extremely limited, mainly for ethnic minorities, migrants and female workers in the textile industry.

Although important investments were made in recent years, the situation of children under 5 years old remains very precarious. On average 32% of children under 5 are chronically malnourished and 50% are victims of a form of violence, including physical violence. NGOs estimate that less than 20% of children go to school regularly. The preschool rate for the 3 to 6 children has steadily increased in the last 10 years (from 13% to 20% between 2008 and 2017) but is still considered very low.

In 2018, Planète Enfants & Développement maintained its large-scale programs on setting up social services in factories; psychosocial support in slums, specifically for women victims of violence and improving access and quality of preschools. A specific action in the slums aims at supporting the communities to have secure and healthy housing.

All these innovative actions comply with the country's public policies and are designed to allow their nationwide implementation.

BETTER SOLUTIONS FOR THE NEEDS OF THE 0-6

A NATIONAL ACTION PLAN, A RESOURCE CENTER AND A STRENGTHENING OF THE QUALITY OF KINDERGARTENS

To improve access and quality of Early Childhood services throughout the country, the project which started in 2016, supports the sharing of knowledge and good practices in this field and also supports authorities at every level in their efforts to fulfill the needs of the under 6 years.

The project targets three specific actions:

- support the development of the Early Childhood Resource Center, set up in partnership with the local organization KrousarYoeung and ensure the efficiency and sustainability of its operation;
- support community councils in the Kampot Province in establishing and funding kindergartens;
- encourage the development of new national policies and national action plans benefitting early childhood.

In 2018, the Early Childhood Resource Center was extremely busy fulfilling orders for educational and training material. The Center's team received assistance from 2 marketing experts to structure the production and retain the partner and customer organizations. The webpage was updated and the toys' catalog offers 60 items for sale. The Center sold 4533 toys in 2018.

In Kampot, the community councils are quite engaged in maintaining the operation of the community kindergartens. The kindergartens' teachers received their salaries regularly and attended training sessions to improve their teaching. The parents benefited from new information sessions. 32 forums were organized in the villages to promote preschool education and on the importance of stimulating a young child with games. On average, 50 to 100 persons per village attended these forums.

Furthermore, the projects received financial support to build 10 brick and mortar kindergartens in 2019.

Before the project, parents tended to leave their children under no supervision and did not play with them.

- Mr SengThaung, Thmey community Chief

And finally, Planète Enfants & Développement, as representative of the civil society network on Early Childhood to the Government, participated actively to interdepartmental brainstorming meetings on national policies and supported the government in drafting a new Early Childhood Action Plan for the period 2019-2023.

DECENT HOUSING AND PSYCHOSOCIAL SUPPORT

Since the 2000s, PE&D and its local partner SKO have implemented actions targeting individual family support in under-privileged and informal urban communities. Since 2016, this action was expanded with programs on improving housing, strengthening community solidarity, hygiene practices, access to water, and solutions regarding risks due to climate change.

As this pilot project proved successful with the beneficiary families, and thanks to the support of the Abbé Pierre Foundation, it evolved in June 2018 and became more ambitious along these main axes:

- Individual social support for families
- Support for improving housing renovation with new and removable material, co-funded by the beneficiary families.
- Strengthening community ties and representation by volunteer groups (PASSA* groups) to the local authorities
- Disseminating information on securing houses and on climate risks in order to encourage improvement of dwellings by the communities themselves.

- Preventing violence against women.

« I am very happy with what the project brings, I learn a lot for my own protection and my community's against natural risks

- A mother member of the Passa group.

The activities started quickly thanks to the PASSA groups, which had been set up during the pilot project in the Daeum Chan, PreaekToal, Preak Ta Kong1, Preak Ta Kong3 villages.

These groups identified 250 vulnerable houses, needing urgent renovation work. To support interested families who wished to fund the renovation work, these families signed, in September, a partnership agreement with a micro-finance institution, whereby they were offered a micro-credit. During December a training day on

ACTION-RESEARCH ON POOR HABITAT IN PHNOM-PENH

Since the end of 2018, Planète Enfants & Développement participates in a collective brainstorming initiated by the Abbé Pierre Foundation to fight against inadequate housing, within international solidarity programs.

These projects have social impacts which require complex analysis.

Thus 3 axes of analysis have been identified:

1. Identification of local traditional building technics, suitable to climate conditions and respecting the environment, are to be considered in our programs
2. Citizen participation, or how to ensure that everyone, and specifically women, have a voice in the decisions.
3. Land tenure security: how to reconcile the needs of the population for building plots and the legal provisions in the slums' areas.

construction was organized in every village. 74 persons in total were trained, among them 21 women..

At the same time, SKO implemented support activities for 50 vulnerable families.

But the main challenge remains the risk of eviction of these families who have settled on public land, often in an informal way. The government's policy is to sell these plots to private investors, with no compensation for the families. This is why this movable and re-usable housing model designed by PE&D is particularly relevant. The team will also look for supporting measures regarding relocation

(*) PASSA group (Participatory Approach for Safe Shelter Awareness), is drawn from a method designed by the Red-Cross and the Red-Crescent. Its aim is to make the communities aware of the risks to which their dwellings are exposed and to help them develop skills to analyze, learn and take common decisions to minimize these risks

SOCIAL SERVICES IN FACTORIES

CLOSE TO 10 000 FEMALE WORKERS TARGETED BY THE HEALTH SERVICES AND AN IN-DEPTH TASK TO SET UP COMPANY NURSERIES.

The EBSS project - Enterprise-Based Social Services -designed to try out new health services and nurseries in Cambodia has effectively started operation in 2018.

Regarding health, PE&D started activities in 6 factories in the rural Kampong Speu province, located over 2 hours by road from Phnom Penh.

Each factory was evaluated and offered technical and financial assistance to bring up the standards of its infirmary. At the end of December, each factory had a renovated infirmary run by staff trained by us. This was a significant progress not only for the female workers but also for the management of the factory, to have

Education and Labor to place Early Childhood and nurseries at the center of their future policy. PE&D and its local partner Krousar Yoeung are the only NGOs participating in the interdepartmental Technical Working Group on this topic. During the whole year, the team worked hand in hand with the national authorities to draft a first version in Khmer, of the national guidelines for factory nurseries. As it is reaching completion, this document aims at pinpointing the obligations of all Cambodian employers towards their employees to help them reconcile work and personal life.

such services in an environment still widespread prone to collective fainting and difficulty in accessing medical care.

Concurrently, PE&D launched reproductive and maternal health activities. With a high concentration of young women (90% of the factory workers in Kampong Speu are women under 25), these textile factories gave us the opportunity to reach a wide audience on these sensitive topics.

Since August 2018, the actions are implemented along these 2 lines:

- Monthly free anti natal medical consultations right on the work place. To ensure sustainability, these consultations are made by staff from the local health center who have direct access to the factories, often for the first time. As a proof of its success, in less than three months 100% of pregnant women workers had been monitored.

- On the other hand, PE&D train and support 60 female and male workers to lead every week awareness sessions on a variety of topics: sexually-transmitted diseases, gynecological infections, hygiene, family planning and birth control. 9.800 female workers have so far benefitted from this program. Female and male volunteers are now real health counselors, who can be called upon by the infirmaries to organize new activities or to prevent a risk.

Second phase of the project: setting up nurseries in factories. The team went into serious negotiation work, with the support of the local authorities to convince managers to offer to their staff a quality child care service. Although needs are still huge as reported by the female workers, awareness on this issue remains weak. ...

This situation prompted the Cambodian Ministers of

Can you describe PE&D's activities in your factory?

Now thanks to PE&D, midwives come regularly to the factory offering pregnancy monitoring consultations, also the female workers trained by the project organize various activities on health issues and our infirmary in the factory is more efficient.

What are the main differences with the previous situation?

Pregnant workers are healthier, stronger and manage better their health, including birth control methods. Anti-natal consultations are held right on the premises of the factory. I feel more secure and never miss one day of work. In addition, I am entitled to one complete and free check-up! I really appreciate this service; I feel reassured to know that I will give birth in safe conditions

FOCUS ON EARLY CHILDHOOD FOR BETTER EDUCATION AND IMPACT ON THE LONG TERM

Longer life expectancy, slight decrease of the demographic growth, and higher education indicators: Burkina Faso, one of the poorest countries in the world, is slowly improving.

Challenges abound: Ouagadougou, which had 2,8 million inhabitants in 2018, should reach 10 to 20 million by 2050. The population is gathered in so-called “unplanned” areas, on the outskirts of the city, usually providing very low standards of living and lacking basic services, with an urban fabric very much in decline and the difficulty for the State to address the needs of these people.

The very limited development is hampered by threats from religious extremists and obscurantism. A major part of the country is now in a “red zone”, considered unsafe. A week does not go by without news of a school closing and students and teachers either attacked or harassed. That is all the more reason why support to the population must be provided to ensure also progress of children’s rights and development.

2018 is a landmark year for Planète Enfants & Développement projects in Burkina Faso as the Family Support program has come to an end. At the same time, projects mainly dealing with Early Childhood as well as supporting professional integration of vulnerable women have been developed or started implementation.

More than ever, we uphold our belief once again that development of young children is necessary for creating the future peace conditions.

CREATION OF A TRAINING PROGRAM FOR KINDERGARTEN ASSISTANTS AND STRENGTHENING OF ONE TRAINING NURSERY

SERVING 150 WOMEN AND FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF YOUNG CHILDREN

Yatenga, a poor northern province of Burkina Faso is not really an area bringing employment, specifically for women (68% of the overall unemployed). In addition, the different steps for the development of young children is hardly known thus limiting their stimulation.

When mothers go to work, either they take their children with them, and thus cannot be thoroughly involved in their work, or they hand them over to persons with little experience on education where the children suffer from a lack of stimulation and end up with delayed development. In an urban environment, as well as in a rural one, these women are looking for professional child care centers.

The recent insecurity in this area close to the jihadist threat is not conducive to the empowerment of young girls and mothers.

With its in-depth experience of the country and its relations with the authorities, namely the Ministry of Woman, National Solidarity and Family, together with their National Training Institute for Social Work, PE&D has selected this region, and specifically the municipality of Ouahigouya to develop a training program for kindergarten assistants, in partnership with a burkinabé association

This activity is based on 3 objectives:

- Providing a professional training for 150 unskilled women, sometimes almost unable to read or write and give them the tools to start a small day care center (2 to 4 children) in their home as “self-entrepreneur” or as employees in a larger day care center. Upon receiving their qualification, once they pass the state-recognized exam, they will have the right to work,
- Allowing mothers of children under 3 to access economic opportunities and thus the ability to emancipate,
- Taking charge of children in a quiet and stimulating environment where they can play, and develop.

Our partnership with the National Institute will facilitate the sharing of this training and will allow many more to have access all over the country.

Activities were launched at the beginning of October 2018, by putting in place the necessary conditions for the implementation of the project: signing an agreement with the partners, recruiting and training the staff in charge of this project.

In 2019, PE&D will also tackle the strengthening of a day care center in AGB (Child Care association) which accommodates 15 children (most mothers are unmarried and still going to school), but this center is neither profitable, nor efficient. The project will bring technical and management support to AGB, enabling it to provide improved quality services and accommodate more children. This day care center, as it is a training center, will allow us to put in practice PE&D's know how for children under 3.

BIIBOP, A SOCIAL AND SOLIDARITY TOY FACTORY 100 % "MADE IN BURKINA"

BiiBop is a toys and educational games brand contributing to the full development of children and allowing to develop skills at a young age. They are manufactured in Burkina Faso, in close partnership with 6 craftsmen and 2 associations. The objective is to make the educational materials available to a large number of people, initially in Burkina Faso, later in a wider geographic area.

The business is based on a vision, a mission and values shared by all partners:

- A vision: an environment in which each child has access to a caring and safe education from an early age on.
- A mission: contributing to developing the full potential of children in designing, manufacturing and distributing quality educational toys,
- Values: local, ethical, recreational, educational.

BiiBop is a social company, for whom, economic efficiency must serve the common interest and its social aim. All benefits will be reinvested to maintain its social mission, while ensuring financial sustainability.

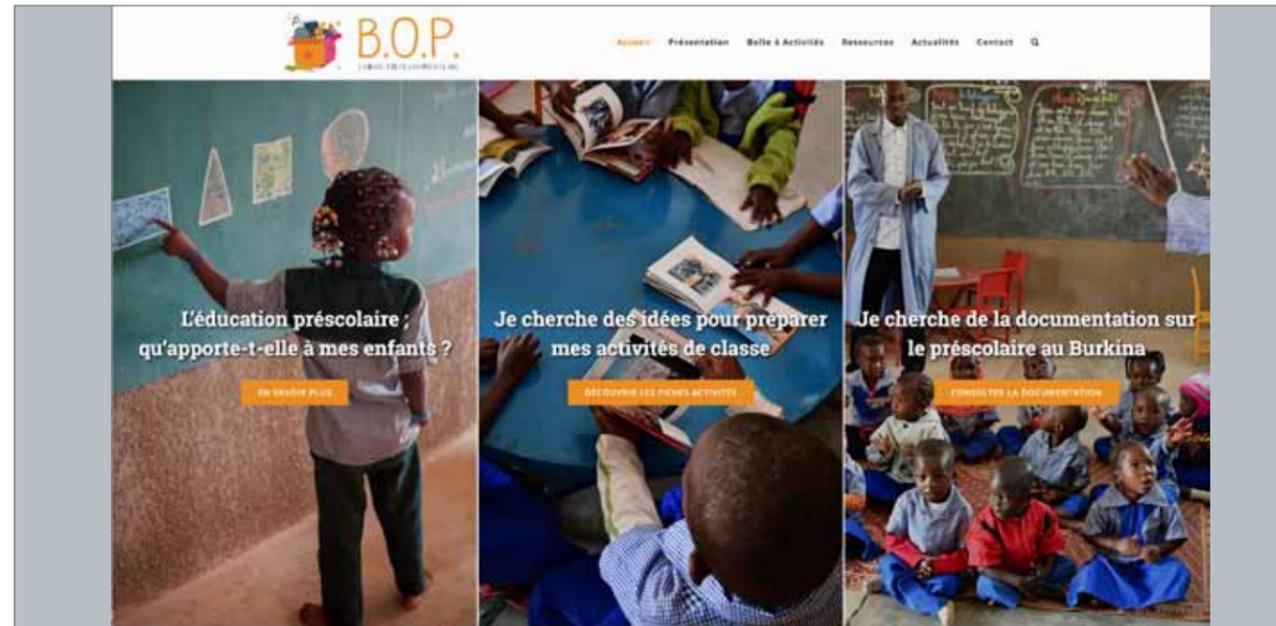

Throughout the process, the positive impact on the local economic fabric and environment is taken into account, from the design to the manufacture of educational material. Suppliers are selected on their ethics. Craftsmen are adequately paid, and according to the applicable laws.

The designing process for toys was completed in April 2018. The Scientific Committee has selected 30 prototypes along 3 criteria: physical aspect, educational contribution and financial accessibility. The ranking first 12 were selected and 60 educators "testers" acquainted themselves with these games and toys during ten training sessions over 5 days each, on site.

BiiBop is supported by la Fabrique, a social business incubator, which offers opportunities to link with other businesses, provides support for the structuration of the legal entity and for defining the economic model and it also funds a burkinabé coordinator.

IMPROVING THE QUALITY OF PRESCHOOL EDUCATION

INNOVATIVE MATERIAL AVAILABLE ON A DIGITAL PLATFORM

LÉONARD SAVADOGO, GENERAL DIRECTOR OF L'INFTS*

In this paper, I would like to give a testimony to the truth and a gesture of gratitude

Our partnership with PE&D has been and still is fruitful and has achieved the following projects: construction and overall equipment of a training Awareness and Preschool Education center (CEEP) for the practical training of students enrolled in the Education for Young Children program in Gaoua, development, in a widely participative process, of innovative educational tools which were approved during a national workshop, training teachers from INFTS to ensure harmonization of taught educational practices on the field, equipment and internet connections in INFTS libraries in Gaoua and Ouagadougou. We are currently preparing all together the training of a pool of regional trainers to achieve cascade training of all field professionals. Furthermore, INFTS and other actors have signed a partnership agreement with PE&D to implement a new project aimed at promoting early childhood educational assistance in training kindergarten's assistants.

(*) INFTS : National Institute of Social Work Training

33 educators carried out an experiment on the guide and outline of the teaching workseets from January to June 2018 in 11 Awareness and Preschool Education Centers (CEEP). Twenty participants gathered in a synthesis workshop – members of the scientific committee, Ministry of National Education technical services and the management unit of the project – and presented the results, including the propositions for improvement and finalized the material.

To allow all preschool actors to access this educational material, PE&D launched in October 2018, the BOP (Preschool tools box) available on the internet via the link www.bop.bf.

In addition to providing tools, this website allows all actors (parents, supervising staff, inspectors....) to share advice, information and good practices

BUILDING A MIDDLE SCHOOL IN KOUBRI

To help pupils continue their education at the secondary level, PE&D has decided to build a middle school with 4 classrooms for 150 pupils per year in Kouabri. All preliminary steps have been completed: obtaining authorization by the authorities, completing the layout of the middle school, drafting documents for the call for tender, consulting with the companies and surveying bids.

Awarding the contract and starting construction work is planned for the first quarter of 2019.

At the start of the 2018-2019 first school year of this project, eight CEEP (Awareness and Preschool Education Centers) have led awareness sessions on the importance of preschool, attended by about 250 persons per session.

Another action was developed to encourage school enrollment in our CEEPS: providing school uniforms to 539 children: we donated the material to the parents to make the uniforms.

Additionally, three CEEP are receiving specific and individual support: in Noghin, a caterer was hired to plan the snacks in safe sanitary conditions, to ensure the cleanliness of the premises and also ensure adequate conservation mean of the food brought by children; the supervising staff has been increased in Sakoula and Daresalam.

The project will also fund drilling boreholes for three CEEP (Sakoula, Daresalam et Kamboinsin). These drillings are important for these centers as selling water is one of their financial resources.

2019: WHEN FACING MULTIPLE CHALLENGES, AGILITY IS THE KEY WORD

At the end of 2018, our president Grégory Doucet announced that we were considering joining the SOS group. On December 13, members of our General Assembly, decided by consensus, not to vote in favor for this merge. The reason was based on an article published in the media questioning a potential abuse of power by the SOS group. This is why we choose to fight every day for our independence and raise the necessary funds for our projects ourselves.

This event had the merit to show our ability to rethink collectively and quickly our model and adapt to it. This flexibility can also be found on the field, where contexts and shareholders and their interests continuously evolve; it is based on the size of our structure, the quality of our permanent staff and the excellent knowledge of the eco systems we work in.

In spite of our assets, the challenges we face in 2019 are tremendous: challenge to achieve a sizable activity growth, as we look forward to strengthening our structure and improving our impact; security challenge in Burkina Faso, political challenge in Nepal; challenge again to move forward the crowdfunding campaign and once more challenge to enter into new strategic, solid and sustained partnerships with our donors as well as on the field.

INNOVATION REMAINS THE KEY WORD IN OUR PROJECTS

2019 will be a pivotal year in the field, as we will be finishing many important projects (final quarter of 2019 and first quarter of 2020) and we are working on an ambitious 2020-2022 plan, inspired by our recent experiences. We are also testing many pilot projects.

With our broad range of experience for the 0-6 years -access to nurseries or preschool education, with the communities or the local authorities; better quality of services and capacity strengthening of actors through training sessions, tools, toys... - we want to develop a multi country project on early childhood development. Our aim is to widen and sustain our successful actions and design new ones to offer global solutions in each country we work in.

In the end, in this decade, we aim at transforming in a significant way, care and development of young children with the ultimate goal: combatting inequalities.

We also continue our Family Support programs for the most destitute in Cambodia and in Vietnam, with emphasis on 2 issues: reestablishing decent dwellings in the slums of Phnom Penh and identification of victims of violence in the underprivileged neighborhoods of Ho Chi Minh City. In Nepal, we will adapt this dynamic resolution methodology of personal issues for young girls and women in the sector of prostitution in Katmandu.

We will launch one educational and responsible nursery for the middle class in Phnom Penh. This structure, of a new type, will offer quality education for the 0 to 3 children of the middle class. Some children from underprivileged families will also have access to it and will benefit from a fee adjustment. It will be a model school with innovative educational material and activities as well as being an incubator for development of new actors in the early childhood sector.

Finally, we will test a new playful and fun device to encourage children to wash their hands, and thus maintain basic hygiene, in Burkina Faso and in Nepal. It will allow us to identify exactly if this type of system is more attractive to children than traditional awareness messages.

FACING TRANSFORMATIONS

Terrorist attacks which have occurred in Burkina Faso the « land of the just», one after the other in recent years, have increased these past months and the list of provinces targeted "red zones" cover a large part of the country. We keep a close eye all along the year on the development of the situation to continue to develop our services for children and families while assessing the potential risks. We are ready to commit to supporting basic services, such as education, in the areas affected by violence and in those hosting the displaced population.

In Nepal, we will have to work under a new administrative organization, and find ways to cooperate with the local authorities as well as with the federal authorities. The prerogatives and budgets of the different levels have not been entirely decided yet and we must remain flexible to continue to progress.

MOBILIZING ADDITIONAL RESOURCES WHILE KEEPING IN MIND THE VERY SENSE OF OUR ACTIVITY

Two full time new staff members will join the headquarter team in 2019, one to develop our institutional communication and crowdfunding; the other to build a long-term partnership with foundations and businesses. It is all about putting in line our means and our programs' ambitions. It doesn't mean that we will sidestep our principles, indeed we will be extremely demanding regarding rigorous ethical practices of our partners. We are also looking for business partners willing to commit for the long term, making sure their commitment fits with their RSE approach* .

35 YEARS!

In 2018, new partners and new private individuals have joined us. We are very proud of their trust! Thank you all for sustaining our existence and helping children grow in a better world. Every member of PE&D, all volunteers, interns, civic services and full-time staff worked very hard to guarantee the quality of the projects and their funding. We wish to thank them from the bottom of our heart and wish them a happy birthday.... In 2019 we will turn 35!
